In 1793, his father moved to Salisbury, in the same county. He was a lad of remarkable activity, and a fine flow of spirits. As Salisbury was a newly settled township, his opportunities for education were not as good, as for those living in older towns. His physical constitution was a very fine one, capable of great endurance; but by an accident, which occurred just before he became of age, he was injured so as to cripple him for life. An older brother and himself were chopping in a wood, when one of the trees fell upon young Asaph; striking him upon the back of the neck, and crushing him into the ground. For some time it was...
