Excerpt: . . . belts and breast and shoulder straps, with a big, brightly polished brass plate on the strap, and their leather caps l and tall and gay red and white plumes, made al truly handsome appearance when on parade, and we can imagine that they did appear very handsome. Of course, none but those who witnsscd the grand spectacle of that day could realize its imposing character, but then--our readers must imagine what it was like to the best of their knowledge and ability. After arriving at the grove the following: order of exercism, intermingled with the soulstirring music of the band, was observed: Prayer, by the Rev. Mr. Riddle. Declaration of Independence read by Joseph Parsons. Hymn by the Sabbath School Children. Oration by Henry Johnson, Fsq. Refreshments on True Temperance Principles. Reading of Thirteen entiments, each Sentiment followed by Music by the Band. Volunteer Sentiments. hat thejunior editor of the Luminary said in his report---the above report was evidently written by the junior, who played the trumpet in the band--about the imposing appearance, the display of beauty and the sublime aspects, were simply the heartfelt expressions of the sentiments of every boy in the band. It was the first big day, and it was emphatically a big day for the young musicians. Our present Junior Cornet Band may pomibly make better music, after having had months more of practice, but bands are now so common that the Juniors must exert themselvm if they would...
