Polk They went to his home at Columbia, Tennessee, to live. It was a union of heart and life, full of strength and blessing to both, growing in tenderness and devotion for twenty-five years, when death dissolved it, and brought to her the one great sorrow, and gave to her the one most precious memory of her life. It was a marriage founded not only in love, but in the highest respect, and congenial tastes. In 1825, Mr. Polk was elected to Congress, and with him she spent many winters in Washington; by her quick sympathy, ready tact, and graceful manners, helping forward the work of the rising statesman. When he became Governor of Tennessee in 1839, she became a leader of social life in Nashville. In 1845, she returned to Washington, after his election as President of the United States, to preside over the social life of the White House. There she displayed those qualities of head and heart which won for her the love and admiration of all parties and classes. With rare grace and skill did she fulfill the arduous duties of her high place. Gentle, dignified, courteous, yet easy, approachable, bright, she was esteemed equally by the high and the lowly. Well informed, thoughtful, vivacious, her conversation had a charm for all, while she kept strictly within the sphere of a true and noble womanhood. In her domestic life she did not neglect the little duties of the household, while she kept in sympathy with her husband s deeper cares and questions.
